

ANNOUNCING A NEW BOOK SERIES FROM THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN PRESS

ADVANCES IN HETERODOX ECONOMICS

Frederic S. Lee, University of Missouri-Kansas City, USA, Series Editor
Robert F. Garnett, Texas Christian University, USA, Associate Editor
Sheila Dow, Stirling University, UK, Associate Editor
Paul Downward, Staffordshire University, UK, Associate Editor
John E. King, La Trobe University, Australia, Associate Editor

The Advances in Heterodox Economics series promotes the development of heterodox economics beyond the existing individual heterodox approaches of Austrian, Feminist, Institutional-Evolutionary, Marxian-Radical, Post Keynesian, Social, and Sraffian economics.

THE SERIES AIMS TO PUBLISH BOOKS IN THE FOLLOWING FIVE AREAS:

1. The synthesis of two or more heterodox theories/approaches in the general fields of microeconomics and macroeconomics, or in specialized fields such as ecological or development economics.
2. The history or philosophy of heterodox economics, including intellectual biographies, theories, and histories of theoretical controversies past and present.
3. The development of novel heterodox theories, such as feminist theory of international trade.
4. The development of heterodox approaches to economic education.
5. Anthologies of heterodox work from all approaches in a specific field or area.

The editor and associate editor work closely with individual authors and editors to ensure the quality of all published works.

TITLES IN THE SERIES

Economics in Real Time: A Theoretical Reconstruction, by John McDermott

FORTHCOMING TITLES IN THE SERIES

Socialism After Hayek, by Ted Burczak

ABOUT THE EDITORS

Frederic Lee is Professor of Economics, University of Missouri-Kansas City. He is the author of Post Keynesian Price Theory and over seventy articles, chapters, and reviews for heterodox economic journals. He founded the Association of Heterodox Economics in 1999.

Robert F. Garnett is Assistant Professor of Economics, Texas Christian University, and Secretary of the International Confederation of Associations for Pluralism in Economics (ICAPE). He has published essays in the history, philosophy, and pedagogy of economics. With Deirdre McCloskey and Arjo Klamer, he is writing An Introduction to the Economic Conversation (forthcoming).

Sheila Dow is Professor of Economics, Stirling University. She is the author of Economic Methodology: An Inquiry and The Methodology of Macroeconomic Thought and other publications in methodology, history of thought, Post Keynesian economics, monetary theory, and regional finance.

Paul Downward is Professor of Economics, Staffordshire University. Downward's books include Pricing Theory in Post Keynesian Economics and Applied Economics and the Critical Realist Critique. In addition, he has written eleven book chapters and twenty-six articles. Downward helps organize and run the Association for Heterodox Economics and is involved with the Post Keynesian Study Group.

John E. King is Professor of Economics, La Trobe University. King has edited, co-edited, written, or co-written twenty books, including A History of Post Keynesian Economics, 1936-2000 and A History of Marxian Economics, as well as many books chapters and articles. King is also the editor of the journal History of Economic Review.

For more information or to submit a book proposal, please contact Fred Lee at leefs@umkc.edu or Rob Garnett at R.Garnett@tcu.edu
UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN PRESS CONTACT: Raphael Allen at allenrc@umich.edu