

Daniel Singer

Lives On...

Daniel Singer, author, lecturer and The Nation's longtime Europe correspondent, died in 2000. His unique voice for democratic socialism lives on through the Daniel Singer Millennium Prize Foundation. Essays developing ideas relevant to Daniel's themes are judged by an international panel of distinguished scholars and activists. Author and colleagues discuss the winning paper at the annual international Left Forum conference. And so Daniel's voice continues to resound. It mustn't die.

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS TO

THE 2011 DANIEL SINGER MILLENNIUM PRIZE

The Daniel Singer Millennium Prize Foundation congratulates Sheila Cohen, author of "Starting All Over From Scratch? A Plea for 'Radical Reform' in Our Own Movement", which won the 2010 Singer Prize. The $2,500 annual prize is a tribute to the outstanding writer, lecturer and thinker, who died in December 2000.

The Singer Foundation invites submissions to its 2011 competition. The prize will be awarded for an original essay of not more than 5,000 words, which explores the question: "In some Western countries, right-wing populism has been able to channel much of the anger caused by the financial crisis and its effect. Why has the Left been marginalized? How can this be overcome?" Essays may be submitted in English, Spanish or French.

The essays will be judged by an international panel of distinguished scholars and activists, and the winner will be announced in December 2011.

Essays can be sent either by post or e-mail to:
